THEY WERE IN THE BIG SHOW AT PHILADELPHIA ON JULY 4

By Bill Rodgers

Take the 220 students in the Porterville High School Panther band, and its supporting units, add an equal number of young folks, old folks, parents, chaperones, and tourists, load them into chartered airplanes (two of them) at Bakersfield, set them down in Boston, give them a week of travel (eleven busses for the full group) in some of the nation's most cherished historic areas, let them celebrate America's 200th birthday as observers, participants and performers in the cutting of America's 50,000 pound birthday cake and in Philadelphia's great Happy Birthday America parade, fly them out of Dulles International airport at Washington D.C., land them back at Bakersfield, then ask:

"How did you like it; what was the greatest; what didn't you like?"

Chances are there would be 450 different answers, different opinions, different ideas . . . but chances also are that among band members there would be expressions of pride and satisfaction in having performed as California's Official Bicentennial band and of having had the chance to see what they saw, go where they went, and do what they did.

As for "what was the greatest," maybe it was the concert on the steps of the nation's capitol; maybe it was the concert and ceremonies at Arlington cemetery; perhaps it was just being at Concord and marching across the Old North Bridge where the "shot heard 'round the world" was fired; it might have been going aboard "Old Ironsides."

Then there was the view of the Statue of Liberty from the Staten Island ferry, a bus tour through New York City, the Empire State building, a trip through Amish country, Valley Forge, Gettysburg, a free day in Washington D.C., the eternal flame at the John F. Kennedy grave, the Smithsonian Institution, a concert in the Liberty Bell Mall at Independence Hall, a night tour of Washington, a tour inside the Capitol building, an hour or so at United Nations' headquarters, the memorial at the spot where Lincoln delivered his Gettysburg address, the friendly crowd reception at the Boston City hall.

What was the greatest? Maybe it was a couple of hours at George Washington's Mount Vernon where the chorale group sang at Washington's tomb; for two boys in the band - probably it was a brief ceremony in Arlington cemetery at the grave of their father; for others, maybe it was the excitement of just being where it all happened when America became America, for at least one person, it was hearing the young folks on one bus applaud when they got their first view of the nation's capitol.

There were other things too, like heat and humidity, a few blisters on a few feet, delays here and there because of a late bus or a lost bus, late takeoff from Bakersfield. But standing joke was, "Those planes and busses are always on time - their time."

Then there was the mixup at Fairmount Park in Philadelphia when some of the band members and some of the other folks did not get picked up on time, and the rains came. When they did get back, courtesy of some fine Philadelphia police officers and their paddy wagons plus a bus that finally arrived, they were full of stories - funny stories - about what to do while standing in a Philadelphia park in a Philadelphia rain storm.

And mystery still surrounds the chorale group's performance in the National Cathedral. The busses rolled up, the Porterville crowd moved inside, the singers sang, everyone moved back to their busses and took off. Great show. Except it wasn't the National Cathedral.

Add up the eight days and there was inspiration, fun, some annoyances, work, new experiences, and the thrill of being part of something big. A few minutes or a few hours were spent in places that would require a few weeks or a few

PLANO 4-H CAVALCADE OF FLAGS GROUP PLANT REDWOOD TREES IN WASHINGTON

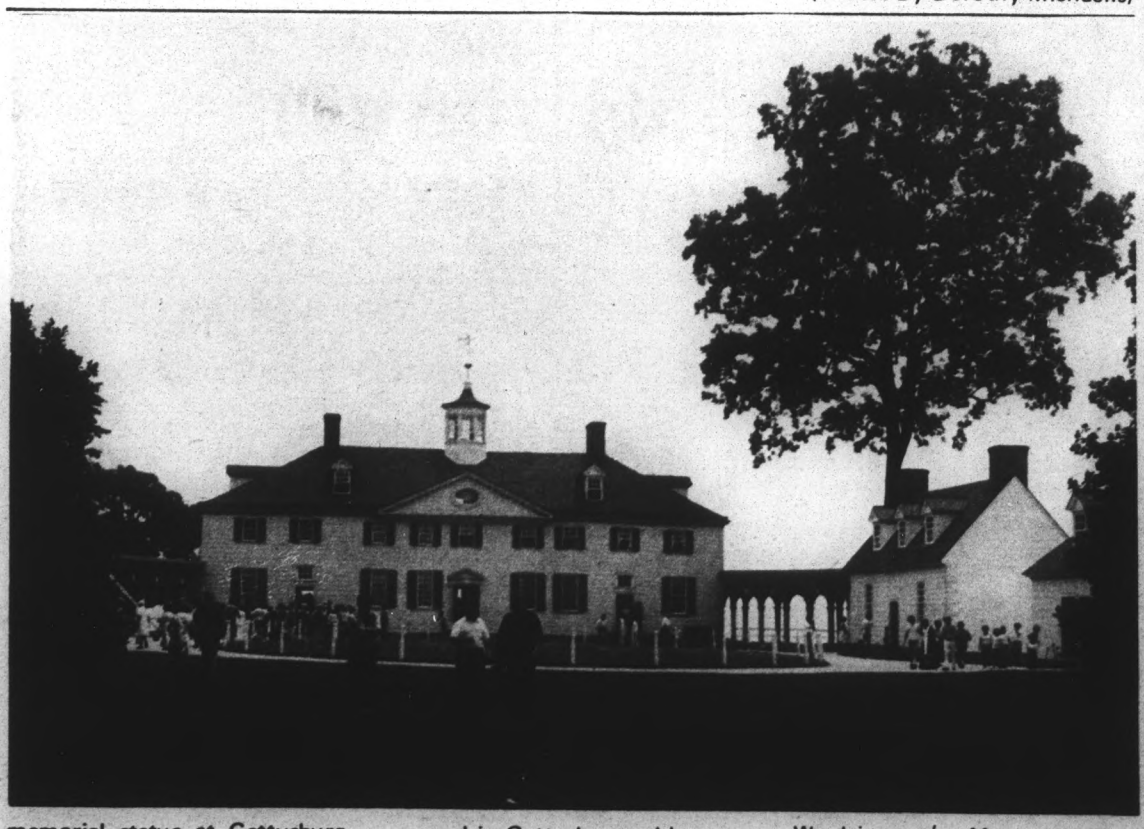

CALIFORNIA REDWOODS on the grounds of the nation's capitol in Washington D.C. will commemorate the eight-day Bicentennial visit of Porterville's Panther band group to historic spots on the east coast, thanks to the Cavalcade Of Flags unit of the Plano 4-H club. In a morning ceremony on the south side of the Capitol building, July 7, a Redwood tree was planted in Capitol park between the Capitol building and the Library of Congress (top photo) following presentation of the colorful Cavalcade of Flags program. Later the group visited the White House grounds - at the same time the queen of England was being welcomed by President Gerald Ford - and presented a Redwood tree to the director of the National Capitol Park service for planting in Washington. (Lower photo) After the planting ceremony at the Capitol building, the Capitol Landscape architect removed the tree and placed in a nursery, explaining that if such a small tree was left on the grounds, it would probably be stolen. "But come back in 10 years," he said, "and the tree will be growing right where you planted it." The Plano 4-H group, in Bicentennial costumes and carrying flags representing periods in American history, was a colorful addition to the tour, and appeared several times with the Panther band.

BIGHORN SHEEP LAMB CROP IS "EXCELLENT"

SACRAMENTO—A census of desert bighorn sheep in the San Jacinto and Santa Roa Mountains indicates a good production of lambs in 1976 and excellent survival of the previous year's lamb crop, the Department of Fish and Game has reported.

Participating in a triennial survey were representatives from six agencies plus three Mexican biologists assigned to that country's bighorn sheep management program.

CHAMBER OPPOSES NEW WAGE ORDERS

PORTERVILLE—Opposition to new wage orders proposed by the State Indusrial Welfare commission has been voted by directors of the Porterville chamber of commerce on the grounds that the proposed 15 wage orders would have an adverse effect on the state's economy by increasing employers' costs and employers' ability to compete nationally.

Cotton Production Down In 1975

SACRAMENTO—California's cotton lint production in 1975, at 1,954,000 bales, was 25 percent below the record 1974 crop of 2,594,000 bales but still the second highest production year. Cottonseed production at 740,000 tons was 27 percent below 1974 and 1 percent above 1973.

The lint crop in 1975 is valued at $506,580,000 and cottonseed produced was valued at $80,660,000. Comparable lint and seed totals for 1974 were $590,382,000 and $160,140,000, respectively. Harvested acreage at 875,000 acres was 29 percent below the 1,238,000 acres harvested in 1974. The yield of 1,072 pounds per acre was the highest since 1968.

Production of all cotton in the United States in 1975 was 8.3 million bales, down 28 percent from the 11.5 million bales in 1974. Cottonseed production in 1975 is estimated at 3,030,000 tons, 33 percent below the 1974 crop.

ANNIE DOESN'T QUITE GET HER GUN EVEN THOUGH ANN IS VERY GOOD

By Bill Rodgers

Annie doesn't quite get her gun in the current production of "Annie Get Your Gun" at the Barn theater, even though Ann Gilbertson is very good in the title role.

Not until the finale does the show develop the exhuberance that is written into the Irving Berlin tunes and the Herbert and Dorothy Fields book. In fact, throughout the four scenes of the first act we sat and wondered, "When does this production take off?"

Well, it didn't until halfway into the second act.

This is not to say that "Annie Get Your Gun" is all bad. It certainly isn't. Costuming is colorful; orchestra, directed by Larry Brumley, is excellent - Melba Rauber and Ellen Noble alternating on piano; Herb Foerster and Mary Urrutia, flutes; Susan Janoko, clarinet; and Doreen Franklin, bass.

Enjoyable nostalgia is created by the Berlin music; movement of the large cast in and out of the theater adds interest; a short Indian dance routine by Mary Berry, Lola Pennestri, Betty Mays, and June Barker is very funny; the old pro, Eldon Hunt, appearing in three bit parts. is just that - the old, entertaining pro.

But . . .

Ben C. DeBurle, playing the male lead, is not up to his best. Perhaps Ben should concentrate on performance and voice and not spread himself out as show producer and president of the Barn board all at the same time.

Alan Litsey, the fast-talking, constantly-moving promoter, is entertaining, but at this point in his young career he might well work on enunciation, articulation, and voice control. It's better when folks in the audience can understand all that an actor is saying.

As for John Holden in the role of Buffalo Bill, we resort to the language of his Indian friends - "Ugh." (Ed. Note - Look John. A good performer like you ought to have a great evening in this part.)

And as for Don Bonsante as Pawnee Bill, we herewith and now nominate him for the worst-of-the-year Hosscar.

Joy Canvasser is beautiful and entertaining; Joe Teller has stonefaced fun with the role of Sitting Bull - and that makes for fun on the audience side of the footlights.

Choreography and chorus work is fair to middlin' (to do a real professional job in these areas top dancers and singers must be available which they probably aren't in the community.)

Some youngsters come up with good performances - Rusty Canvasser, Lori Franklin, Kathy Franklin and Rhonda Gullett, but the use of youngsters rather than adults in "crowd scenes" and the ensemble weakens the production.

There are others in the "Annie" cast, in fact bit parts pop up all over the place, and total production involves a lot of people and a lot of costuming. Now, if Director Virginia Haydu can get the aforementioned exhuberance into the total show, things could be jumping at the Barn for the balance of the "Annie" run.

CONSOLIDATED MILK MARKETING AREAS PROPOSED

SACRAMENTO—State Food and Agriculture Director L. T. Wallace has called a series of public hearings to obtain testimony and evidence concerning proposed consolidation of four Southern California Milk Marketing areas into one.

The Department proposes that the Southern Metropolitan, San Diego-Imperial, San Luis Obispo, and Inyo-Mono Milk Marketing areas be consolidated with uniform classified prices to be paid to producers in the proposed new area. The consolidation would be accomplished without increasing or decreasing the overall returns to the dairy farmers in the area.

MARY HUNSAKER, SPRINGVILLE 4-H, WINS "STEER OF TOMORROW" CONTEST

EXETER–For the second consecutive year Mary Hunsaker, of the Springville 4-H Club, was named champion of the "Steer of Tomorrow" contest sponsored jointly by the Tulare County Catlemen's association and the Tulare County Cooperative Extension service.

Kevin Kleinhans, Outside Creek 4-H member, earned reserve champion honors. Runners-up are Mary's sister, Theresa Hunsaker; Bill Shannon, Burton 4-H Club; David Lewis, East Lynne and Joy Airoso, St. Aloysius.

Individual plaques and cash awards were presented to the winners by CCA contest chairman Bill Mehrten, of Exeter, at the county-wide 4-H awards night held recently in the Visalia Convntion center.

Mehrten stated that purpose of the contest is to recognize and reward projects having economic merit on the basis of profit, gain and carcass quality.

"In other words," he said, "animals raised to show standards often do not reflect the economic reality of the cattle business based on performance and production standards."

The Cattlemen's association, along with Farm Advisors Bob Miller and Wes Goss, have devised a program of judging "steer of tomorrow" animals for their growth and quality achieved during the 4-H project year.

In November, the cattle are weighed, branded and entered into the contest with a fair market value. The 4-H member then puts the animal on a feeding program designed to produce a desirable finished product.

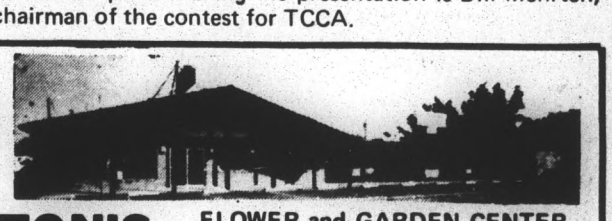

At the 4-H Fair in May the animal is shown, sold and sent to the meat packing plant for the final test. The dressed beef is graded and the three categories - profit, weight gain and carcass merit - are averaged.

MARY HUNSAKER, left, Springville 4-H club, was named champion of the "Steer of Tomorrow" contest co-sponsored by the Tulare County Cattlemen's association and the Tulare County Cooperative Extension service. Kevin Kleinhans, Outside Creek 4-H, was the reserve champion. Making the presentation is Bill Mehrten, of Exeter, chairman of the contest for TCCA.

Edison has over 80 conservation tips. Here are a few.

MAKE EVERY KILOWATT COUNT.

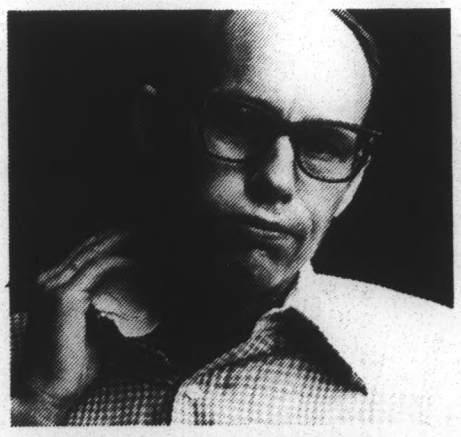

REDUCE YOUR COST OF COOLING.

Here are 6 ways to do it.

1. Keep temperature at 78° or higher. The less difference there is between inside and outside temperatures, the lower the air conditioning cost. If you have a room air conditioner, use a thermometer to see that the room temperature drops no lower than 78°. Remember: air conditioning is not to make you cold—just comfortable.

2. Insulate your attic. If your attic isn't properly insulated, you could be using too much energy for air conditioning. (Too much energy to heat your home, too.) For information, see your local insulation contractor.

3. Air condition only rooms in use. If you have a room unit, keep all doors closed to the room you're cooling. When the children (or family pet) go outside, don't forget to close the door. Keep the windows closed, too. And draw your draperies and blinds. Outside awnings or other sun screens will also reduce your cooling needs.

4. Consider an automatic timer. Timer attachments are available that will turn off your room air conditioner when you are away from home and turn it on before you return.

5. Keep equipment clean. Clean accessible parts, but be careful not to damage them. Check filters every month and clean or replace as needed.

6. Investigate an energy-saving unit. If you're in the market for a room air conditioner, compare the Energy Efficiency Ratio rating. The higher the efficiency, the more cooling you get from the electricity you use.

Free conservation booklet. For more of Edison's ways to conserve energy, write for our free booklet, "Conservation," Edison, P.O. Box 800, Rosemead, CA 91770.

OUR TOWN

I really wasn't making fun of OUR PIONEER WOMEN. Far be it from me to make fun of those remarkable women. I wouldn't have made it out of my own safe little back yard, much less tramp across the country to an unknown settlement. I'm sorry if some of MY READERS thought I was demeaning those wives and mothers who were the backbone of the whole Western Movement. As you must have gathered by now, I'm not so hot at this writing business.

I keep killing my sour dough starter. I did it again, and had to call MONA GAUGER for another cup of starter. We weren't home when she arrived, so she hung the little cellophane bag of starter on our door knob. The warm sun made it grow and grow. Rimski Korsakov would have understood, and the music would have been perfect. I now have four loaves of SOUR DOUGH bread. Larrbaru eat your heart out.

I now have French Bread pans. I answered an advertisement and the pans arrived with a fun recipe for eight loaves of French Bread. I let the first mass raise, and it looked like an awful lot of dough, but I thought the man knew what he had written. I dumped it out on a formica surface, as the recipe said. The only formica surface I own is on top of the portable dishwasher. The mass didn't have enough flour in it and kept trying to run down the sides of the dishwasher. I tried to dam it up with handfulls of flour, but it just pushed the flour over the sides. When I tried to work the dough the dishwasher would move, and I had to chase it around the kitchen. This was one of the more than just hot days around OUR TOWN, and I don't like messes in my clean kitchen, but I had a real one this time. I don't know why I start these dumb things. I'm a very dubious cook in the first place. I'm good with fudge and salad. I finally got the dough into the long french bread pans, and the loaves are long enough to use for little league, and the crust hard enough for a home run. So now I have eight loaves of French Bread in my freezer, and I don't want to ever see it again.

When we have week-end guests, and want to do something special, we take them to THE CELLAR. The food is always good, and everyone is so pleasant, and the prices are right. Our friends love the atmosphere, and I'm glad to get them out of the house for a good meal, that I don't have to mess up my kitchen for.

---

Aren't the melons delicious this time of year. Have you tried lemon juice on honey dews? "Each to his own taste," said the old man kissing the cow. Butter on radishes! Now that's weird.

Happiness is wall to wall grandchildren in sleeping bags.

CLEAN WATER PROGRAM IS BIG BUSINESS

SACRAMENTO—The Clean Water Grant program in California has become the state's largest public works program with over $800 million in sewage treatment works construction currently underway.

Determined to avoid waste or misuse of funds, the State Water Resources Control board, resposible for management of the grant program, is strengthening its audit effort.

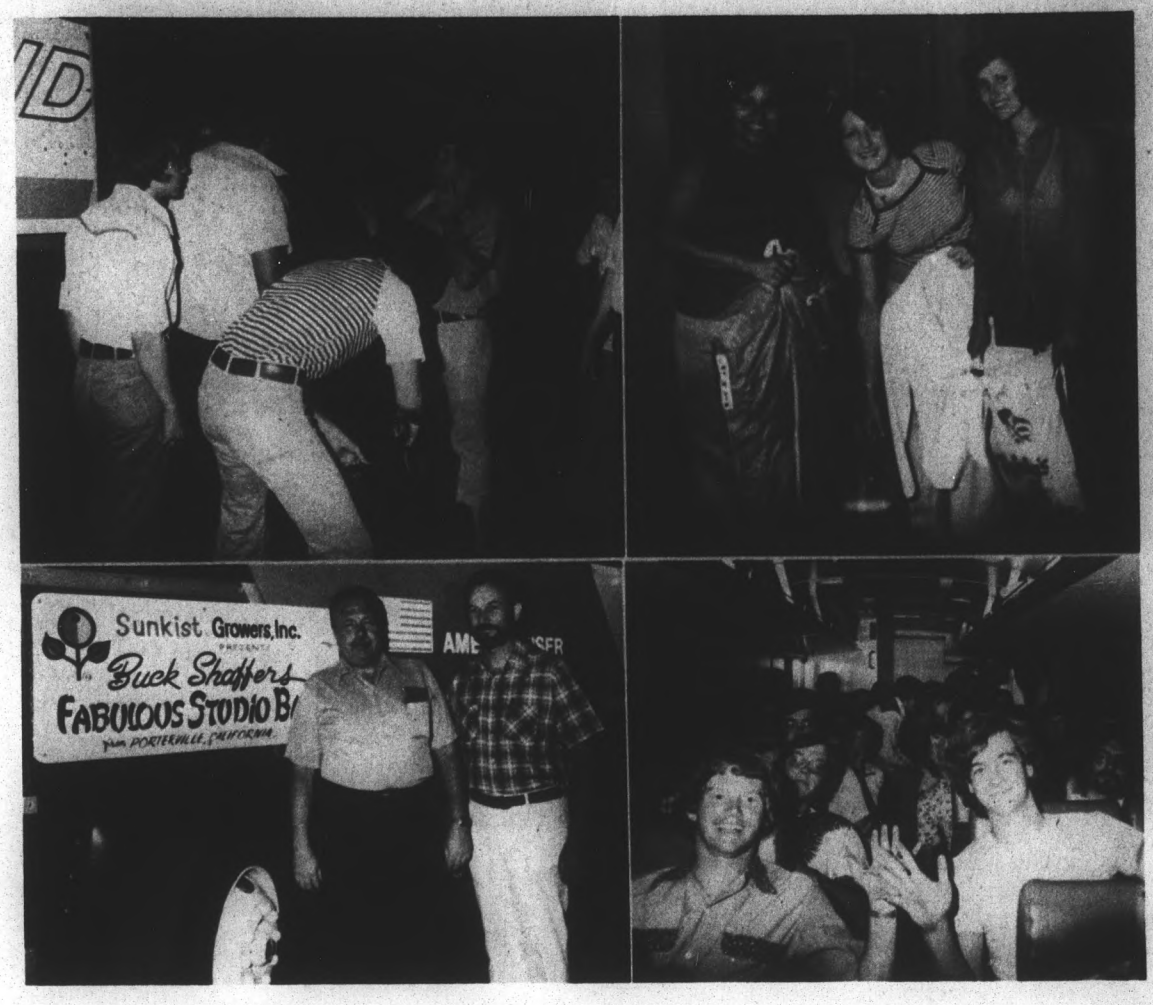

In addition to its responsibilities under state law, the board, under delegation from EPA, is responsible for administration of the federal grant program, with audit responsibilities shared both by the state board and EPA.

According to State Board Chairman John E. Bryson, "Within the next few months, California's construction program will top the level of $1 billion and within 18 months it is expected to reach a level of over $2 billion. This includes a federal share of 75 per cent and a state share of 12 1/2 percent of the monies."

Tulare Class Of '46 Plans 30th Reunion

TULARE – The Tulare Union High School class of 1946 will hold its 30th annual class reunion with a dinner and dance at the Tulare Elks club, Saturday, July 31. Reservations at $25 per couple or $12.50 per single are available from Betty Mays, 1640 Eastgate, Tulare; or Joyce Ton, 2035 K Road, Visalia, prior to July 26.

For the entire year of 1976, projected U.S. cow slaughter is 9.7 million head.

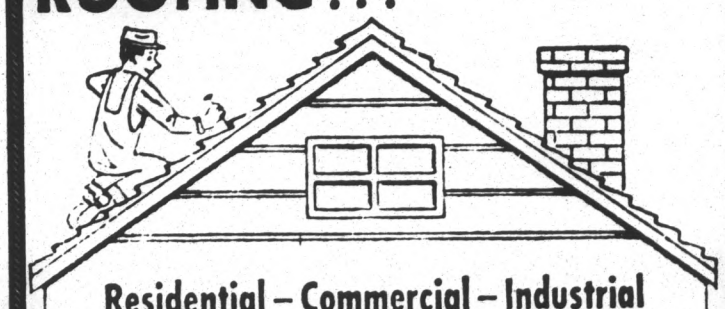

ON THE road as emissaries of Sunkist Growers is the Fabulous Studio band, shown above leaving Porterville the night of July 14. From top left: Stowing away luggage and instruments on a chartered Greyhound bus; the three girls in the band - Jeannie Lopez, trumpet; Kathy Land, drums; and Dolly Zimmer, vocalist; Band Director Buck Shaffer with Duane Carroll who, as a student at Porterville High school and Porterville college played with the band for five years, including the first year of the band, 1953-54. Carroll, now a Doctor of Musical Arts, teaches at Campolindo High school, Moraga, and just in case, he has his clarinette along on the trip. Lower right - loaded and ready to pull out. Others making the month-long trip across the nation to the east coast and back are: Jim Brown, Paul Perez, Doug Bigham, David Neece, David Orth, Doug Ream, Chris Ross, Jim Kusserow, George Baker, Brad Wilcox, John Hatfield, Paul Natzke, Lawrence Valdez, Richard Ogle, David Clark, Clyde Slusser, Kenneth O'Hare, and Bill Shaffer. Today, the band is leaving Indianapolis and moving into Cincinnati for performances at Fountain Square and Wright Patterson Air Force base. During the next week itinerary includes Shinnston, West Virginia, (Bucks' home town) Washington D.C., Philadelphia, and New York City.

FARM FRONT

VISLAIA—Farm crops are generally doing well in Tulare county according to weekly report issued July 16 by Agricultural Commissioner Clyde R. Churchill.

Cotton is growing well with bloom showing; silage corn is making good growth; alfalfa is being cut and baled; Navel oranges continue to be packed and Valencia harvest continues with a substantial volume going to export; avocados are sizing well and crop looks good; peach, nectarine, and plum harvest continues; a few Pearlette grapes have been harvested, Cardinals and Thompsons are coming along.

Some dryland grain is still being harvested, also irrigated grain, milo and blackeyes are growing well; apples are sizing but the crop appears to be below normal; melons are being picked; tomato harvest is past its peak but Bell peppers, squash, eggplant and okra are being picked.

But it's a sad story for cattlemen. Lower elevation foothill range conditions remain poor and many cattlemen are thinning their herds.

Almond production in California this season is expected to hit a record 235,000 tons, in-shell, 47 per cent above last year.

Keasberry thanked the 17 leaders who attended from northern and central California and said that he hoped to see each one at the 20th Annual Guide Dog Field day to be held August 5 at Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc. in San Rafael.

Amended Peach Market Order Gains Approval

SACRAMENTO — State Food and Agriculture Director Tim Wallace announced recently that California cling peach processors have approved the amended processors marketing order for clingstone peaches for 1975-78. More than 70 per cent of processors representing more than 90 per cent of the cling peaches processed in California last year approved the amended marketing order, which will become effective July 7.

The principal amendment to the marketing order will require mandatory diversion of off-grade cling peaches by processors, and will classify peaches with invisible split pits as off-grade. Under the present Marketing Order, only 50 per cent of such peaches are so classified.

The changes in the processors marketing order will help ensure that only the highest quality raw product possible will be processed into canned cling peach products during this 1976 season.

Boatner continued, "Interested persons are urged to call toll free number - 1-800-952-5320 - to obtain an application and/or further information. The CSC has consented to hold the required examination in Porterville, if enough persons are interested."
